

FOUR MEN SET FREE AFTER AN ODD AUTO ROW

Shot Had Been Fired and
Two Revolvers Were Found in Machine.

Two of the biggest revolvers ever seen in Jefferson Market Police Court were exhibits A and B in the case of four men arraigned to-day by Police-Master Bracken, of the Tenderloin station, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The men were Charles G. Testera, proprietor of the Virginia Hotel, on Staten Island; Joseph Miller, of No. 87 Warren street, Brooklyn; Henry Miller, of No. 28 West Sixty-eighth street, and Henry Frost, of No. 119 Woodhurst avenue, Bronx borough. They were arrested last night at Twenty-seventh street and Fifth avenue in an automobile after a pistol shot, fired in the car, had attracted Bracken's attention.

Testera was formerly steward of the Prince George Hotel, in Twenty-seventh street near Fifth avenue. He was found there last night with his three friends helping the bar receipts, and they had just left when Bracken placed them under arrest. Testera swore that he would spend $10,000 to "break" Bracken and every other member of the police force who had anything to do with his apprehension.

When the case was called to-day by Magistrate Finn the men were still talkative, especially Testera. Bracken did not see the shot fired, nor could he swear that he found the revolvers—one .44 calibre and one .46 calibre—in the possession of any of the prisoners. "They were on the rear seat," he explained, "and the men were sitting on them."

All automobiles, explained Lawyer Frederick J. O'Sullivan, who appeared for the prisoners, "carry revolvers to shoot dogs with."

"Dogs?" queried Magistrate Finn, lifting the largest revolver from the desk with an effort. "You could kill an elephant with these. They are juvenile cannon."

The Magistrate decided that the charge of carrying concealed weapons would not lie, and instructed Bracken to make a charge of disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace. The police-man could not produce any witnesses, and the men were discharged after each of them had positively denied ownership of the revolvers.

Mr. W. G. Lottimer, proprietor of the Prince George Hotel, and World reporter to-day that he discharged Testera some time ago. The former steward walked into the hotel at 2 o'clock this morning, approached the night watchman and displayed a revolver with a muzzle that looked like the entrance to Madison Square Garden. "I'm a United States marshal now," declared Testera, nonchalantly fondling the revolver.

The watchman was afraid of him and did not attempt to disarm him. Testera left after a few minutes and got into an automobile at the curb. In front of the hotel, two doors away, some one in the automobile fired a pistol. The report, echoing from the high buildings in the neighborhood, was terrific. A woman, entering the Harrow with a gentleman fainting from fright. The shot attracted the attention of Police-Master Bracken and the street followed.

SEVEN HELD ON SMOKE NUISANCE CHARGES.

All Are Managers or Employees of Hotels Where Soft Coal Is Used.

Seven offenders against the soft coal smoke ordinance were arraigned in two police courts to-day. In the West Side Court and one in Jefferson Market. Most of the offenders were managers or employees of hotels. All put in the defense that they are unable to buy anthracite coal and must use soft coal or close their houses.

Dr. Walter Benzel, Assistant Sanitary Superintendent of the Health Department, contended in the West Side Police Court that inability to buy anthracite coal is no excuse for smoky chimneys because smoke consumers that will consume smoke are on the market. Magistrate Searles agreed with Dr. Benzel, but Magistrate Finn, in Jefferson Market Court, expressed the belief that the Court of Special Sessions will declare the excuse void.

Edward M. Tierney, proprietor of the Marlborough Hotel, was Magistrate Finn's offender. He was held in the ball for trial. Fred R. White, manager of the Hotel Orleans; Alex. Loody, broker of the Hotel Algonquin; John Pooner, manager of the Hotel St. Hubert; Richard Cumberland, manager of the Hotel Wellington; Gen. W. G. Pitts, manager of the Hotel St. Hubert; and John G. Patterson, owner of a box factory at No. 64 West Fifty-sixth street, were all held for trial in the West Side Court.

SOLD STOVE TO BUY STEAK FOR HIS DOG

Mother Tells Court Little
Jacob Koenig Is the Limit in Juvenile Cussedness.

A boy who sells his mother's stove to buy fancy steaks for a big brown mongrel which he loves beyond anything in the world should be a psychological study in the development of wickedness. He is Jacob Koenig, thirteen years old, of No. 89 First avenue, and his mother told the Magistrate in Yorkville Court to-day that he is the worst boy she ever heard of in this city.

Selling his mother's stove to get steaks for his big brown dog Jakey is only one of the many strange things this youngster has been guilty of. He has been bad from infancy, his parents say, does not care anything for her and when she crosses him threatens to get his dog upon her.

"I think a hull lot more o' me dog dan I do o' me mudder," he said when an agent for the Children's Society arraigned him in court to-day. "Jakey's me good friend and me mudder's a bad person and she's got a bad name."

The examination was then set over until next month. Jacob, the boy, will appear in the Children's Court in a few days.

When Agents O'Connor and Curran went to the boy's home to arrest him last night he had them an exciting chase. He saw them coming and with his big dog at his heels fled along First avenue and into the tenement at

No. 86. Bursting into the flat of a stranger he and the dog hid under the bed. When O'Connor and Curran tried to pull him out the dog bit them severely.

The dog followed them to the rooms of the Children's Society, and the boy made such an uproar when the animal was shut out that it was finally brought in and allowed to sleep with him.

The dog also tumbled along to court to-day and then returned to the Children's Society.

D. J. HARRINGTON DEAD.

Former Alderman Killed by Tripping Over Pipe.

Dennis John Harrington, who achieved fame as a politician and was the victim of numerous jokes while a member of the Board of Aldermen several years ago, is dead at his hotel, the Iroquois, in Flushing.

While crossing the street in front of his hotel Harrington tripped over a water pipe and broke his hip two weeks ago and sustained internal injuries, and his death was the result. He was forty-two years old.

He leaves a widow, four sons and two daughters.

COLLIERS IN COURT OVER LAND DISPUTE.

WILLIE Collier and his wife, Louise Allen Collier, were in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, to-day in the suit Mrs. Collier has instituted to compel her husband to sell a piece of property on Long Island and give her half.

After the Colliers had separated abroad—the wife declaring that the actor's success had made him giddy—Collier agreed to pay his wife $100 a week, and also to pay over to her half of the money he received for the sale of land in Suffolk County, which, she says, is worth $20,000.

As he failed to do this Mrs. Collier brought suit.

The actor went on the stand before Justice Kelly to-day and declared that he could not sell the land for the price he asked. He said he was only asking $20,000. Before the case was adjourned he agreed to sign a paper stating his willingness to sell the property for $20,000 and give his wife half.

No Extra Charge for It.

161 GROCERY STORES

Never before in our twenty-five years' experience have fresh eggs been so scarce and hard to get at this season. The cold, stormy weather is to blame, and the elements are beyond our control.

All our plans were made to bring in a monster egg train for Easter. But when the hens refuse to lay, what is to be done? We have had to be satisfied with less than half the quantity we expected and arranged for. With such a scarcity of eggs we are lucky to have any train-load at all.

Now that the Easter Egg Train has arrived our customers as usual will have all the advantage. The eggs are being hurried to our stores, and while they last will be sold for what they cost—no charge being made for the labor and expense of handling. This is our Easter greeting to the housekeepers of Greater New York.

James Butler quality and James Butler prices make the Easter celebration doubly delightful.

We publish a few of the prices up to next Saturday in force at all the 161 James Butler Groceries and the 73 James Butler Licensed Stores.
